Our Goods Stand Up On Analysis

Clemson College has been analyzing our fertilizer again. Our 14 per ct. acid analyzes 14.46. Our 16 per ct. acid analyzes 16.57. Our 10-4 goods analyze 10.92, 4.94. Our 8-3-3 analyzes 8.34, 3.39, 3.26.

Our goods always stand up on analyses. We put the stuff in them to make them stand up. They can't do anything but stand up.

Nearly all the farmers who took prizes in last year's corn contest used Anderson Fertilizer in making their corn. Three-fourths of the finest crops made in Anderson County last year were crops fertilized with Anderson fertilizer. There were no better crops made in Anderson County last year than those fertilized with Anderson fertilizer.

Mr. J. S. Fowler, one of the finest farmers in this county, or any other county far that matter, says our 8-3-3 is an ideal fertilizer for cotton. His lands are dark and he has made a proper choice in selecting a fertilizer for dark lands. Where the soil is more or less sandy we have an abiding faith in our 8-4-4. The extra unit of potash in the 8-4-4 will be found helpful to the crops on sandy soils.

Mr. Jno. S. Cromer, another one of the "finest," used 1000 lbs of our fertilizer on some of his fine lands last year and it paid him. This year he expects to use 2000 pounds or a ton to the acre on some of his fine lands as an experiment. We believe it will pay.

A good farmer, farming on fine lands in a high state of cultivation, can hardly put down too much fertilizer to the acre. We hardly know what would be too much in a case of this sort.

LOSES HIS POWER

Speaker Cannon No Longer the Autocrat of Congress.

WILD TUMULT IN THE HOUSE

Amid Scenes Which Only Have Their Parallel in the Exciting Times Just Prior to Civil War House Votes on Speakership Question.

Washington—Speaker Joseph Cannon, of Illinois, has lost his power as the autocrat of Congress. In other words, his power has been measured by the taking away from him. He is still speaker of the house of representatives, but he is not the autocrat.

SPEAKER CANNON.

time and weapon of this attack, when the allied republican insurgents and democrats took from him not only the chairmanship of the house, but even membership in the influential confederate on rules, the chief asset in his arsenal of power.

Amid scenes of wild disorder, for the first time since the restoration of the civil war, the speaker of the house of representatives, Joseph Cannon, of Illinois, was ousted from his position. Cannon, who had been speaker since 1902, was defeated by a coalition of republican and democratic members of the house.

Final Vote Cast for Cannon. And at the end, when the republican members of the house voted to re-elect Cannon, the vote was 191 to 175. The republican members of the house voted to re-elect Cannon, but the democratic members of the house voted to elect a new speaker.

This is what happened. By a vote of 191 to 175, the republican members of the house voted to re-elect Cannon, but the democratic members of the house voted to elect a new speaker.

reorganization of the rules committee, increasing its membership from five to ten and declaring the speaker ineligible to make his own motion.

By the curious incident of vote of 119 to 115, but with a majority of different personnel, the speaker of the house defeated a coalition of republican and democratic members of the house.

Scenes Without Parallel. The oldest man in Congress makes no pretense of understanding any parallel for the sensational scenes which have characterized the last few days in the house.

"TEDDY" FOR GOVERNOR.

Republican "Boss" Says New York Wants Roosevelt.

New York—Theodore Roosevelt for governor.

That is the state of the New York Republican machine, according to William Barnes, Jr., of this city, who is really the "boss" of the state machine.

"I expect to see Theodore Roosevelt nominated for governor," said Mr. Barnes, with every appearance of sincerity.

"There is no reason why the Republican party should not carry the state. No man is more popular than Roosevelt; no man has proved himself more capable than he. Although Colonel Roosevelt might hesitate to accept such a nomination, I believe he will be unable to withstand the tremendous pressure which will come from all directions toward him to make the contest this year."

L. DeGIVE IS DEAD.

Prominent Theater Owner of Atlanta Has Passed Away.

Atlanta—Laurent DeGivie, one of Atlanta's oldest pioneers, owner of the Grand opera house, the Blount theater block, and one of the best known men in the city, died at Cocoa, Fla., after an illness of over a month.

With him at the time of his death were his daughter, Mrs. Edward Horne, and his sons, Henry and Julius, who were summoned to his bedside some weeks ago when it was realized that his condition was desperate.

Several times during his illness the aged Atlanta rallied and hope was entertained for his recovery. However, his extreme age of 83 years was against him.

The death of Laurent DeGivie marks the passing of one of the most remarkable men in the city of Atlanta as well as one of the most picturesque characters in the theatrical life of this country.

GRANT LETTER FOUND.

Interesting Document Found in Out-letting Document Recovered from an Outlaw's Descent.

Los Angeles—A number of interesting documents recovered from an outlaw's descent but, among them a letter written by General U. S. Grant, during the siege of Vicksburg, have been recovered here.

The Grant letter was addressed to General Parke and conveyed orders relative to the operations in front of the Confederate stronghold. The other papers are supposed to have been stolen from Gen. Manuel Garcia, of the Mexican army.

A Peasant's Revenge.

Munich—Investigation has revealed that Augustine Conrad Geiger and four friends, who lost their lives here recently in an automobile smashup, were killed by a large tree being deliberately felled across the road. The police say that this and several other accidents of a similar nature are the work of a peasant who seeks revenge on the death of a child killed by an automobile.

Fatal Dispute About Fifty Cents.

Frankenburg, S. C.—R. W. Gidman, engineer of the Valley Falls Manufacturing Company's mill, ten miles west of here, who was struck in the head by a rock thrown by Henry Fish, an employee at the mill, died of his injuries. A dispute over fifty cents was the cause of the killing. Fish and his brother-in-law, Andy "Coke" also implicated in the affair, fled and have not been arrested.

Rome May Get Shops.

Rome, Ga.—Announcement has been made that the Southern railway will double-track its lines from North Rome to Atlanta junction, a distance of five miles on the section where traffic has been much congested. It is believed here that this is the first step towards building shops and yards on the 120-acre tract purchased four years ago by this road here.

Fatal Accident to Editor.

Lynchburg, Va.—Edwin A. Herndon, for 15 years managing editor of the Lynchburg News, and one of the best known newspaper men in the state, was thrown from his horse and his head striking a gate-post, he received injuries from which he died an hour later. He never regained consciousness.

Tragedy in North Carolina.

Asheville, N. C.—A special from Marion states that Charles Morris, 17, six miles south of that city, shot and instantly killed his two-year-old girl, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Bird, and seriously wounded his wife. He then fired a bullet into his own head, from the effects of which he died an hour later.

Southern Publishers to Meet.

Birmingham, Ala.—The eighth annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association will be held at Mobile, Ala., Tuesday and Wednesday, May 10 and 11. Headquarters will be at the Battle House during the convention. It is expected that the convention will be largely attended.

Two Negroes Lynched.

HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS ABOVE COMMON PEOPLE.

Elevators in Public Buildings Run Mainly for Their Convenience—Amusing Point in Contest for Senate Reading Clerk.

"There are many wrinkles in official life in Washington which afford those who are acquainted with them a certain amount of amusement," said a local newspaper correspondent, "and one of the funniest, from the standpoint of those not interested directly, has been the contest for the selection of the reading clerk to the senate."

"That the official whose duty it is to decide the question as to the fortunate man who would pull down the plume, after listening to the varying voices of the 80 contestants, was obliged to take a rest for a few days to recover his normal condition can be readily understood by all who are familiar with such things at the capitol."

"But that he should have found three members of the nation's highest law-making body who were requested to act as a committee to determine the merits of the respective contestants, who had not made a recommendation for the vacancy in question, is as astonishing as it is unusual in that not a single senator could be found who had not made a recommendation."

"As a rule, when a vacancy occurs at either end of the capitol, the difficulty senators and representatives have in deciding which one of the dozens of applicants shall be shown the preference of a recommendation. This selecting committee of three will go down in capitol history as unique."

"Official authority in the department is thrust upon one at every angle of the corridors and rooms of these big buildings and forms barriers over which both the infuriated and the unwary stumble, but it is seldom that it penetrates into the elevators."

"It happened in one of the elevators of one of the larger department buildings the other day. It was at an hour when the car was crowded with clerks going to work. After the door had been shut and the car had ascended almost to the first floor, there came a violent ring at the bell and the conductor, reversing the lever, dropped back like a shot to the ground floor, took in another passenger and jumped the car to the fifth floor, where the late comer alighted. Then the car slowly descended, floor by floor, to permit the wrathful clerks to get out."

"The hurry-up passenger happened to be one of a half-dozen or so bureau officers, whose official authority gave them the right to make a runaway trip with any elevator they happen to strike, irrespective of the corridor destinations of the rest of the passengers, but the scene and sensations of being whisked past your floor, despite your calls to the elevator man, were more aggravating than amusing. Some bureau officers, however, show the other passengers in a car the courtesy of allowing it to stop from floor to floor; others don't."

Senate "Barkers."

Guides who pilot strangers through the capitol have discovered a seat strip in the senate which they feature with all the mellifluous eloquence of a midway or pike "barker."

"The first seat on the minority side," they declare with a flourish, "is that of Senator Jeff Davis, who broke all precedents by making a speech in the beginning of his term, saying he would not feed from the hands of a corporation. In the next seat you will observe 'Bulldog' Taylor, whose tenuous airs carried him to fame and high office. In the next seat will be found William James Bryan, the youngest member the senate has ever had; and next to him you will recognize the oldest senator, William Pinckney White, of Maryland. Immediately in the next case, as it were, you will observe Senator Bankhead of Alabama, who ran for the house, but, strangely enough, defeated for that office, found himself slanted into the senate by appointment as the result of the unexpected death of Senator Morgan. Immediately beyond him you will see Senator Gore of Oklahoma, the only blind senator the country has known, and last, but not least, you will note Senator Owen, who has Indian blood in his veins."
